AMERICAN BIKERS for AWARENESS TRAINING & EDUCATION

The main purpose of the ABATE organization is to work toward continued freedom of the road by insuring that motorcyclist's point of view is presented to our legislators and to promote motorcycle safety, rider education and public awareness. We are trying to alleviate the very real possibility of "Big Brother Government". We encourage all our members to be informed registered voters. We write letters to our elected officials and stay aware of what is going on with motorcycle legislation, and other transportation issues. We welcome interested parties to any of our activities or to join our organization.

Greetings and peace Long Island ABATE members!

I hope everyone enjoyed a wonderful holiday season! We are all looking forward to a better New Year! If you didn't have a chance to attend the Long Island ABATE holiday party at the Red River Inn, you missed a great gathering! As many of you know, Long Island ABATE has resumed general membership meetings in both Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

At our most recent meeting at the BPOE Elks hall, we were honored to be installed as officers by Suffolk County District Attorney Ray Tierney with Suffolk County Legislator Nicholas Caracappa also in attendance. Nick was sponsor of an amended Suffolk County law that requires tow truck drivers the task of cleaning the street of accident debris. Along with former LI ABATE President Jim Barr and Margaret Nicosia we attended the signing of the amended bill by Suffolk County Executive Steve Bellone.

Your Long Island ABATE officers and volunteers can be counted on advocating for you and the motorcycle community even for those that are not members. We encourage members to lobby those we know who are not yet members to join us! There is strength in numbers! Speaking of lobbying, I intend to continue lobbying all issues that pertain to motorcycle awareness, training and education. I hope to see you at the Suffolk meetings on the second Tuesday or the Nassau meetings on the third Tuesday of every month.

BIKERS INSIDE THE BELTWAY FINDING COMMON GROUND

Bikers inside the Beltway – with the encouragement and direction of the Motorcycle Riders Foundation, since the first Bikers inside the Beltway in 2009, thousands of bikers have met with their elected representatives and educated them about issues of importance to all street riding motorcyclists.

Last week, President Biden signed into law what the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives agreed upon -- a $1.7 trillion omnibus spending package that funds the federal government through September 2023 and avoids a government shutdown. Included in that 4,155-page bill is a request by Congress to learn more about the profiling of motorcyclists. Specifically, within the funding section for the Department of Transportation, language states that: The Committee is concerned that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) may be conducting activities that encourage states to adopt legislation, regulation, or other policies that unjustly profile motorcycle riders. The Committee directs NHTSA to report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the extent to which the agency works with states on motorcycle passenger policies within 120 days of enactment of this Act.

The words of retiring U.S. Representative David Price from North Carolina may just as well apply to the recent efforts of the Motorcycle Riders Foundation "... Understand that not every battle can be won on the first try and that politics is a matter of striking a balance between ... compromising and finding common ground where you can, and fighting where you must."

The MRF's victories, realized in the waning hours of Congress in December, should drive home Congressman Price's words. Those victories came from the year-after-year vigilance of MRF members writing, calling, and meeting with members of Congress during the Motorcycle Riders Foundation's annual Bikers inside the Beltway.

The pandemic, and the events of January 6, 2021, did not deter the MRF. More than one hundred motorcyclists attended the first in-person meetings in 2021 with members of Congress. Even more attended Bikers inside the Beltway in 2022.

Now is the time for you to make plans to attend Bikers inside the Beltway – May 15 & 16, 2023. As in years past, Bikers inside the Beltway will be dual-faceted to accommodate in-person visits to Congress plus visits to local district offices. To ensure that the mission of getting our message to Congress continues to be successful, please consider the following:

Make your appointments locally or in Washington Familiarize yourself with the briefing points Confirm your appointment locally or in Washington Virtual or in person, make notes on your meeting Share your meeting notes with the MRF

Attending Bikers inside the Beltway is an essential element of the MRF's grassroots activism. Make plans to attend the pre-event briefing and Q&A for visits to Congress, scheduled for 7:00 p.m., Monday, May 15. Briefing packets and "leave behinds" will be available during the briefing.

The Motorcycle Riders Foundation's Bikers inside the Beltway — May 15 & 16, 2023.

Thank you for your commitment.
Yours in Freedom,
Fred (Fredric Harrell)
MRF Director of Conferences & Events

House Passes Motorcyclist Profiling Resolution!

In one of the final actions before the 117th Congress dissolved the House of Representatives passed, H. Res 366, the motorcyclist profiling resolution.

The resolution, which was first introduced in 2016, failed to receive a vote on the House floor until today. In the six years since it was introduced motorcyclists have spent countless hours educating lawmakers and raising awareness on the issue of motorcyclist profiling.

The 2016 version of the resolution had just 18 cosponsors, but that number grew to 103 this month. These 103 cosponsors represented a diverse set of political beliefs and geographic interests, but all were committed to supporting bikers.

It has been a long journey to this point and many parties are responsible for this victory. Former Representative Reid Ribble of Wisconsin originally introduced the resolution and after his departure from Congress Representative Tim Walberg of Michigan picked up the baton. The Motorcycle Profiling Project provided important data that helped inform lawmakers about the extent of motorcyclist profiling. Motorcycle clubs and independent riders all invested time and resources in the battle on Capitol Hill. State motorcyclist rights organizations leveraged their relationships with home state lawmakers and increased cosponsor numbers dramatically. Most importantly all these groups remained committed and focused despite setbacks and disappointments.

With this action, the House joins the Senate, which passed a similar resolution in 2018 standing against motorcyclist profiling and asking for collaboration between law enforcement and bikers to prevent profiling. Additionally, five states, Washington, Maryland, Louisiana, Idaho, and New Hampshire all have state laws against the profiling of bikers.

The Motorcycle Riders Foundation hopes that this demonstration of support from the United States Congress will provide other states a foundation to enact legislation.

2022 Ends With Multiple D.C. Victories for Bikers

In case you missed it, the last two weeks of 2022 saw multiple victories for the Motorcycle Riders Foundation (MRF) and all motorcyclists in this country. With the clock ticking down before the 117th Congress adjourned, three major parts of the MRF legislative agenda were addressed by leaders in Washington, D.C.

December 16th – Rep. Tim Walberg of Michigan and 26 bipartisan members of the House of Representatives sent a letter to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) regarding three recent fatal crashes between self-driving vehicles and motorcycles. The letter seeks answers about how self-driving cars interact with motorcycles and whether recent crashes are statistical outliers.

December 22nd – Rep. Susie Lee of Nevada inserted committee report language into the year-end omnibus government funding bill released by the U.S. Senate and passed both chambers of Congress. The report language states "The Committee is concerned that National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) may be conducting activities that encourage states to adopt legislation, regulation, or other policies that unjustly profile motorcycle riders. The Committee directs NHTSA to report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the extent to which the agency works with states on motorcycle passenger policies within 120 days of enactment of this Act."

December 23rd – Six years after it was first introduced the U.S. House of Representatives passed H. Res 366, the motorcyclist profiling resolution. The resolution "Promotes increased public awareness on the issue of motorcyclist profiling; encourages collaboration and communication with the motorcyclist community and law enforcement to engage in efforts to end motorcyclist profiling; and urges State law enforcement officials to include statements condemning motorcyclist profiling in written policies and training materials."

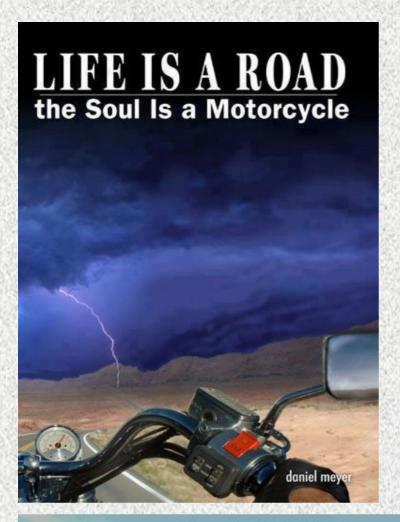

These three victories in the span of just a few days reflects the hard work of MRF members and our allies over the course of 2022. The work done at events like Bikers Inside the Beltway and by state motorcyclist rights organizations throughout the year paved the way for these successes.

As we look towards 2023 more challenges remain. For example, the Motorcyclists Advisory Committee (MAC) has yet to be established despite legislation passed in 2021 that directs the Department of Transportation to seat the MAC. Follow up on issues like profiling and self-driving cars will be necessary as will action on other items in the robust 2023 MRF legislative agenda.

While we are excited by the end to a successful year in our nation's capital, we know that staying engaged is the only way to protect the freedoms we cherish. Thank you for your continued support of the MRF. Without your time, energy, and passion the voice of the street rider would disappear from the halls of power in D.C.

On Tuesday January 10th, 2023 at 7:30p.m, the Long Island ABATE held a general meeting at the Elks Lodge, Located at 41 Horseblock Road in Centereach. The door was open at 6:30p.m. There was also a 50/50 raffle.

At this particular meeting the members of Long Island ABATE were sworn in by Ray Tierney, the District Attorney of Suffolk County. Some new members were welcomed. During the meeting there was a discussion about the budget.

Legislator Nick Caracappa explained a new law going into effect that would help clean the streets as well as ensure motorcyclists safety. At the scene of motor vehicle accidents tow truck drivers will be mandated to clean up the street of broken glass, plastics, metals and other debris. An officer will have to approve and make sure that the debris was cleared before the tow truck driver can leave. The Tow Truck Driver can face up to a $350.00 ticket if debris is not cleared.

During the meeting a special award was handed out to Bill Quinn, the treasurer of Long Island ABATE, for his hard work throughout the years there. Congratulations Bill!

And lastly towards the end of the meeting the 50/50 raffle was drawn and $90.00 was won and donated to the Veterans Fund.

I'd like to take this time to say hello to our members, Friends and families. I hope everyone had a very Happy New Year! For my article this month I'd like to let everyone know that our long time friend and photographer that has been out in the motorcycle community forever has decided to retire and start another chapter in his life. I'm sure most of you know I'm talking about Ron Monteleone.

Ron has been doing freelance photography for over 20 years. He has written for the paper Fire News and many other newspapers. Ron has also photographed many, many house fires and car accidents for different fire departments. Just to mention a few Selden Fire department, Centereach Fire department and others. On any given weekend whether it was a car show, a club event, a parade, or a fundraiser, a dinner for politicians. Ron was always out and about with a smile on his face and his camera in hand to take pictures. I can only imagine the amount of photos that he has taken. My friends call me the archivist because I love taking pictures on my phone. This man blows me away! He's not one of the good guys he's one of the great guys! and I know myself I am going to miss him so much being out at every function I go to.

I did have the opportunity along with Chris Beckhans to stop by Ron's house In the beginning of January to say goodbye and be able to present him with a beautiful plaque from Long Island ABATE to thank him for the many years of continuous support and dedication to our organization and the motorcycle community. Ron will still be on Facebook so I'm sure if you want to reach out and say hello or even have his number and call to say hi. And every time I talk to him I'm still trying to have him already come back up and visit! I hope you enjoy the pictures. Photo credits go to Ron Monteleone. Tami Ellin, and myself.

A New Year!!!

Happy New Year to you everyone!!!Have you ever gotten up and thought to yourself, "oh well, it's just another day." Sometimes it feels like it may be just another day. You do your normal routine to get ready to do what you normally do. Yada Yada Yada. You're thinking that you wish it wasn't just another day. But we have the choice to make it "not" just another day. We can go into the day with hope. You get into your car, truck, or whatever, starts up without a hiccup. Your ride to work is easier than it normally is...lighter traffic, kinder, more courteous, and patient (it can happen) drivers are strong you. Now. You get to workand you see that person who normally is a bit of a nuisance, is really nice to you because they woke up and wanted it to "not" be just another day. Your supervisor who's usually only engages when necessary, stops and asks you how you how your family is, and how your weekend was. He/she wanted the day to "not" be just another day. Funny, everything that usually happens didn't, or so it seems. You see, we can make our time better by choosing to expect different outcomes. And if we start out with a hopeful and positive attitude and mood, others will usually respond differently and the way they are approached. If you take your ride to work calmly, it may seem like the ride us easier. If you are kinder to the annoying person, there's no guarantee, but they may become nicer to you. If you're open and engaging to your supervisor, he be may react differently and be more receptive to you.

I suggest that we start this year as New Year with hope, which will make you feel positive. We have free will to choose positive or negative, good and bad, right and wrong, easy or hard, truth or lies. Whatever you choose will affect you life going forward. What seems like fun may not be in the long run. What seems easy may become bad for you, but what is hard may benefit you. What looks like it's the truth may actuallybe a lie, and what you think was a lie may actually be the truth. I pray that you all choose positive, what is good, what may be hard but better for you, and always seek the truth and to be truthful. Life will be more satisfying and joyful.

Where can you find positive, good, hard but with the time, and the truth? Jesus has all of this. Seek Him. Jesus does not promise an easy life, but you will know love, hope, joy, and peace, strength to endure, truth, and He promises salvation. You'll never be alone again with Him.

If you have questions, my info is in this newsletter. I'll answer whatever you ask at any time. I'm praying for y'all for a better year than the last. A year of love, hope, joy, peace, strength, and truth.

Ride and be safe always. May God bless your all.

Another World

Sometimes strange thoughts come mind without probable cause. Well maybe there is probable cause. Bikers, I believe are more susceptible to thoughts out of the box. With an attitude of freedom come many benefits, and I think one just might be the ability to think and imagine the better. Face it we as bikers are closer to and experience more of God's creation then the average "civilian" does.

We can imagine a world where the roads are clear, the sun is bright and reigning down just enough warmth to warm the skin as well as the heart. The wind is just the right temperature and strength to brush by us and tease our skin and give us a push in our chest that the spirit of the rebel in us enjoys the feeling of standing our ground an slightly pushing back.

You breath in the air as it goes by ingesting the aromas of the land, the greenery, the livestock, all the effects and emotional benefits of life going on all around us as we run the miles and miles. Going nowhere in particular while arriving and experiencing everywhere and everything. Stopping only momentarily to experience special things or special foods. This is another world, the world we envision every time we throw our leg over our iron horse, crank her up and crack the throttle. And once in a while we get a taste, a glimpse of what could be, and what is but rarely felt.

It is as God created it to be for a time. For someone connected to the God of the Universe, a biker connected I mean, those times are most often. You see that other world we envision and desire is there all around us, all the time but we miss it. We miss it because we have so much on our mind, so many attitudes and emotions drag us away from the thing we cherish the most. Hurts, disappointments, pressures of this live we live. Stresses of responsibilities and relationships that we carry way to heavily.

And we find ourselves using our scoots to decompress and treat us as so much medicine and a tonic elixir. It is not even fare to the machine that treats us so so well most days. Imagine another world where you just get on your bike and just.... Be. A most extravagant experience of communion of human and creation ordained by a loving God to bring you experiences and feelings that expands the 5 senses to maybe 7, 8, maybe 9 types of sensory extravagance all happening at once. It is as God intended.

A thought, a wonder, a reality if you seek the one who holds the keys to, "Another World."

God bless, ride safe, and God bless America

The Effects of Hearing Loss on the Spouse

If you are suffering from hearing loss, you're not alone. While an estimated 36 million American adults experience some degree of hearing loss, those closest to you – your immediate family – are affected even if they don't share your hearing impairment. Your spouse or life partner, in particular, may have a difficult time dealing with your hearing loss.

Many spouses complain of a lack of communication. They resent having to repeat themselves, and adopt strategies such as positioning themselves in front of their husband or wife when speaking, encouraging lip reading and relying on handwritten notes. The most common and overwhelming effect is on everyday activities, mainly television and telephone use. Spouses must deal with increased volume when the TV is on, making it uncomfortable for them to watch television in the same room. They also tend to be the ones to answer and make all telephone calls. Additionally, many couples experience a reduction in social activities, with the hearing-impaired partner more likely to want to stay at home rather than venture out, in order to avoid a potentially uncomfortable situation.

Naturally, these factors lead to resentment and put a strain on the marriage. Increased tension often leads to a lack of intimacy, causing serious damage to the relationship.

If you are hearing impaired and married (or cohabiting with a loved one), there are steps you can take to improve your relationship with your partner and ease his or her burden. If you own hearing devices, use them – and if you don't, speak with your audiologist to find out if they will help. There is a direct correlation between hearing device use and relationship satisfaction. Of equal importance: accept your condition rather than wallowing in self-pity, despair, or denial. Recognize your limitations and seek help. At H.E.A.R.S. Audiology, our audiologist will perform a communication needs assessment (which includes a hearing test) and discuss appropriate treatment options for you to consider. Nobody wants to have difficulty hearing, but dealing with it in a positive manner can go a long way toward maintaining a solid marriage. When you accept your impairment and take steps toward treatment, your spouse is more willing to help and it's easier for both of you to adapt to the situation. Best of all, your quality of life improves and your relationships thrive.
